Movie study guide the patriot answers book 3 pdf

Is it reasonable to say that almost every dog is in some way a service dog? When humans pet dogs, their bodies release oxytocin, a hormone associated with not only happiness but bonding and affection as well. Other than the people who are blind, name the three most compelling people in the film. Handlers report that their dogs enthusiastically leap into the harness every morning! 5. The film then focuses on a litter of five infant Labrador Retrievers and traces their progression through the Guide Dogs for the Blind training program, with the constant question: do they have the fortitude and discipline necessary to become a guide dog or will they be "career changed" and taken out of the program. Aside from therapy dogs, there are many jobs that dogs have done for people for thousands of years. However, when the harness is off, a Guide dog is just like any other dog. This is a great reward film, to show to a class that has just taken an important test or completed an assignment. Write a two-page essay about a situation that you have observed or heard about in which a person acted altruistically. Available from Amazon.com. It makes no sense. • Mobility assistance dogs. In your essay, discuss at least five examples, including the occasions in which dolphins have saved human swimmers. When the movie comes to his doorstep, and his family threaten, Martin takes on the arms, to help lead the American to freedom. Greater numbers of bystanders decrease individual feelings of responsibility. The most remarkable people shown in the movie are the volunteers who train the dogs from birth to a year or 15 months. Likewise, guide dogs understand that they have an important job and the dogs who make it through training appear to love their work. Much debate exists as to whether "true" altruism is possible in human psychology. The fact that he fell in love with the dog is an expected result of volunteering to take in one of the puppies for their early training. The movie plot is basically the same with Mel Gibson's 1995's epic film, 'Braveheart', nothing really new. Rather than realistic anti-war character, Martin somehow is shoe horse as patriotism hero, even if that not the reason why he went to war in the first place. Honestly, one of the best scenes in the movie, had to be with Charles Cornwallis and Benjamin Martin doing prison exchange. Search the Internet for a story about a beautiful bond that developed between people and pigs/cows/chickens/goats/horses. Dog companionship often gives people a sense of purpose by causing them to develop a daily routine and giving them something to look forward to each day. Is there real disinterested altruism in non-human animals or does the animal always have something to gain? 2. Sadly, it get somewhat lost, once the film ends with the sappy happy ending. Most of the war atrocities in the film, have no factual basis and parallel to the American or European 18th century wars, anyways. Think about the young man who had been a soldier in Iraq and came home disabled by PTSD. The film shows remarkable people and amazing dogs engaged in the effort to supply people who are blind with a set of eyes that can increase their independence. Have the group make a five-minute presentation to the class about the type of therapy dog assigned to it, including, their training and what type of therapy they provide, and the illness or disability of the people to whom they are assigned. We provide food and care for them and many dogs appear to revel in the fact that they have a job and contribute to the family/pack. The event helped to create the common image of him as a brutal commander, uninterested in the conventions of civilized warfare, but is a subject of debate, if he indeed fully did those horrible acts, himself. Jason Isaac's character is loosely based on Banastre Tarleton who might had cause the Waxhaw Massacre in which prisoners of war were brutally executed. It was only a stroke of luck, for him, that Patriot was "career changed" and given back to him. They will play and they love to be petted. Altruism is empathy extended into action. Janet Gearhart the lady in the film who received Poppet, one of the two dogs from the litter, told TWM that when she gets home with Poppet she takes off the harness and Poppet becomes like any other family pet. Lord Charles Cornwallis (Tom Wilkenson) and Col. Guide dogs in harness are working and are trained to focus on the needs of their handler. Still, there are some very light moments, some clever comedy, and even a love-story. Name a job that dogs have been trained to do (other than being a therapy dog). Suggested Response: There is no one correct response but good candidates are: 1) Adam the veteran; 2) Adam's mother, whose son went away to war a whole person and who came back severely injured; and 3) the young high school student who felt like a failure when he had to give up his puppy early and send her to some more experiences volunteers. The movie also had some interesting real life historical figures played by great actors such as Gen. The men were given some backstory, and each one was pretty interesting characters. • Volunteerism and helping behavior have not only been shown to improve mental health, but physical health and longevity as well, attributable to the activity and social integration it encourages. You got the Reverend (Rene Auberjonois), the wild man (Leon Rippp), the slave (Jay Arlen Jones), the semi-racist Southern (Donald Logue) and the French Man (Tchéky Karyo). The relationship between altruistic behavior and happiness is bidirectional. 5. Humans have unique and beautiful bonds with domesticated dogs and cats. The theory of psychological egoism suggests that no act of sharing, helping or sacrificing can be described as truly altruistic, as the actor may receive an intrinsic reward in the form of personal gratification. • Seizure alert dogs. Not only does a person acting altruistically feel good about what he or she has done and about themselves as a person, but studies have demonstrated that people who spend some of their time volunteering are healthier, live longer, and are happier than people who do not volunteer. Students will explore the concepts of altruism and the unique bond between dogs and humankind. Canines' social impact on humans is especially significant for those who tend to be more isolated, such as children with no siblings or elderly persons. It is an engaging exploration of altruism and the system used to breed, train, and select guide dogs for the blind. Honestly, in real life, the British Army at the time, would probably hang him or discharge him for how often, he disobey orders and how many atrocities was caused by his own hands. It was just so fun to watch. William Tavington (Jason Isaac) whom made Martin's life, a living hell. Overall: Like Uncle Sam says, I want you to watch it. 1. I wouldn't be shameful to admit, that I honestly like this movie. Was this review helpful? The dog who barks when someone comes to the door is doing her or his job to be an alarm for intruders. 1. Altruism is distinguished from actions motivated by loyalty to specific individuals or groups such as friends, family, racial group, co-religionists, or countrymen. Justify your answer. What save the Patriot from being one-sided, is that it does not depict the American character Benjamin Martin as innocent of atrocities; a key plot point revolves around the character's haunting guilt over acts he engaged in, such as torturing, killing, and mutilating prisoners during the French and Indian War. They will be introduced to Guide Dogs for the Blind, the process of training guide dogs, and the volunteers whose dedication are essential to the program. We never know if he still, being haunted by his actions or any new actions, he commit in this war. The movie is bloody, gruesome, and violence as hell. According to self-psychology, an animal can be a "self-object" that gives a sense of cohesion, support, or sustenance to a person's sense of self. I have never saw a movie before this that portray the Napoleonic tactics so brutal. Suggested Response: Herd cattle and sheep; raise the alarm against intruders; assist in hunts; draw sleds etc. Still, the movie directed by Roland Emmerich of disaster movie fame, gave us a movie worth watching on Independence Day. Here is a man with a grave injury, too ill to work. Certainly. The unique human/dog symbiotic relationship permeates the film. Sign in to vote. Hence, to make Martin more sympathetic to modern audiences, Martin is made anti-slavery sentiments and made Martin not a slave owner. • [stupid argument] - one will always receive gratification] Altruism can be distinguished from feelings of loyalty, in that whilst the latter is predicated upon social relationships, altruism does not consider relationships. Suggested Response: Dogs and humans have a symbiotic relationship going back tens of thousands of years. The score by John William is beautiful to listen to. Permalink SUBJECTS — U.S. History and Culture, 1991 to Present SOCIAL-EMOTIONAL LEARNING — Caring for Animals, Disabilities MORAL-ETHICAL EMPHASIS — Caring, Citizenship AGE; 11+ 2018; 120 minutes; Color. Film Study Worksheet for a Documentary Teachers can modify the movie worksheet to fit the needs of each class. • Hearing dogs. Why is the human/dog relationship symbiotic? 3. Directors: Don Hardy (as Don Hardy Jr.), Dana Nachman Writer: Dana Nachman With: Janet Gearheart, Ronald Strother, Christine Benninger, Linda Owen, Rebecca Minelga, Eric Minelga, Nick Ursano, Alice Ursano, Cathy Wassenberg, Bill Wassenberg, Lisa King, Chris King, Patti White, Al White. Studies have found that generosity increases linearly from sad to happy affective states. Empathy is the experience of understanding and feeling what another person is experiencing or thinking from their point of view, rather than from your own. • Autism support dogs. • Seizure response dogs. Benjamin Martin is a composite figure the scriptwriter claims is based on real American Revolutionary War heroes: Andrew Pickens, Daniel Morgan and Thomas Sumter, but mostly Francis Marion. Discuss if it's reasonable to say that almost every dog is in some way a service dog. The validity of this argument depends on whether intrinsic rewards qualify as "benefits". Do people have a right to put these dogs through rigorous training and make them do the work of being a Guide Dog? Yes, the movie is historical inaccurate, but the film does look like it takes place in 18th century, America. Self-psychology explains why some animals are so crucial to a person's sense of self and well-being. Suggested response: TWM believes that the answer to this question is, "yes." Dogs make people happy. Suggested Response: It depends on whether the guide dog is in harness. The fictional historical war movie take place in American Revolutionary South Carolina, where Benjamin Martin (Mel Gibson) is trying to raise his family in peace. I do think that Martin does have way too much children in the film that it's hard to keep track of them. Suggested Response: He finds a way to give back by taking care of a puppy who he hopes will become a guide dog for a blind person. While the film is an excellent driver for assignments, just viewing the film stands on its own as a positive experience. We should not try to distract them. 4. TWM offers the following movie worksheet to keep students' minds on the film and to focus their attention on the lessons to be learned from the movie. 6. Do altruistic actions benefit the person who takes the action? The location sets, the costumes, and the visual/special effects were all amazing. Once again, he's out for revenge, this time against Col. What does he do and what happened to him? Why do the volunteers take the puppies into their homes and spend endless hours training them, only to give them up after a year or 15 months? What the movie opens, blind raconteurs tell how their guide dogs saved them from injury or death by refusing commands that would have led them into danger. Another fault that some critic pick on is how they made Benjamin Martin into the hero, even with him committed atrocities as bad, if not worse, than those perpetrated by the British. Suggested Response: They do it because they know that a blind person needs that dog to get around and they love taking care of the animals. Everything is interconnected. I have to say, Heath Ledger was pretty much show that he could become a leading man with this film. • Guide dogs. • The word "altruism" was coined by the French philosopher Auguste Comte in French, as altruisme, for an antonymof egoism.[1][2] He derived it from the Italian altrui, which in turn was derived from Latin alteri, meaning "other people" or "somebody else" [3] • Research also suggests that the number of bystanders witnessing distress or suffering affects the likelihood of helping (the Bystander effect). However, eventually they must surrender the dogs to the next step in a rigorous training regimen required to make a guide dog. From research on the Internet, find five different types of service dogs who are offered, describe their training, what type of therapy they provide, and the illness or disability of the people to whom they are assigned. In this view, the animal is part of our community and is an important determinant for psychological well-being. • that happier people are also kinder. Studies also show owning a dog reduces stress and alleviates anxiety. This movie is a pretty entertaining film, despite the fact that it lacks much historical accuracy and highly controversial for it criticized for demonizing the British Army, and for white-washing slavery out of the time. Divide the class into ten groups and for each group assign one type of therapy dog. The websites cited in the Learning Guide. While, Tarleton is indeed a bit crude, he was more human, than Tavington whom is played as sadistic over the top one-dimensional evil villain. Harry Burwell (Chris Cooper), influence and based off of Henry 'Lighthorse' Lee. • Psychiatric service dogs. Research and write an essay on altruism in non-human animals. Pick of the Litter is a movie about cute little puppies who grow up to be guide dogs for the blind. These people take puppies into their homes, spend countless hours training and taking care of them, and, of course, they fall in love with their charges. Altruistic actions are those that benefit another person or an animal in which the only benefit to the actor is the psychological gratification of helping another. According to the social support theory, animals are a source of social support and companionship, which are necessary for well-being. If you are walking your dog and you meet a person with a guide dog on the street, should you allow your dog to go up and greet the guide dog? • Diabetic alert dogs. It's a good watch. I just glad, they didn't notice too much on them and more on him leading a rag-tag team of Militia men. Describe the motives of the person. It's also about the people who train the puppies, and the blind people they are learning to guide. This decision received criticism as a cop-out. While, the love-story isn't as strong as Braveheart levels, with Martin love affair with his widow's sister, Charlotte Selton (Joely Richardson) and Martin's son, Gabriel (Heath Ledger) love affair with Anne Howard (Lisa Bremner). 9 out of 12 found this helpful. It didn't felt, too forced. The film does have a great relationship with the father/son that makes it worth checking out. Students will be motivated to write and to participate in class discussions. Francis Marion, the Swamp Fox, was the foremost guerrilla fighter of the Revolution; unfortunately, Marion had no qualms about slavery and he certainly didn't free any of his slaves.
